About 5 years ago we found a beautiful piece of property on Lake Gaston. It had always been a goal of ours to build a second home not far from our current house in Wake Forest. This would mean going through "the building process" for the third time in 25 years. Of course we knew many of the pros and cons of building from the ground up...specifically finding the right builder that not only fit our needs, but also one that we could have a collaborative relationship.

Living in the Raleigh area there are many builders we could have chosen from, but we wanted a builder that really knew The Lake Gaston area. We did our homework and interviewed several Builders and received character references from many of our new neighbors that have lived on the lake full-time.

We are now enjoying an absolutely stunning home built by DAVID WILLIAMS. David, his wife Emily and all the subcontractors delivered an incredibly smooth and exciting building process. From the first day we met with David he guided us through the process of how best to collaborate to build the home that would best meet our needs and dreams. It wasn't like building our home in the Raleigh area because of all the special considerations you need to understand building on the lake with land that borders land owned by Dominion Power. David was also careful to correctly set our expectations and our home was built within the expected time frame

Thank you David Williams, not only for creating such a beautiful high quality home for our family, but also for treating us with respect and managing the process as if you were building the home for yourselves. Lake living...is grand if you live in a home built by WILLIAMS.
